Building the Replica

H.F. Johnson

It all began with HF Johnson, President of the S.C. Johnson Wax Company of Racine, Wisconsin. It was his idea to make an aerial tour of the regions in Brazil that were home to the canauba palm trees, the source of wax, obtained by beating it out of the palm fronds. In 1935 he bought an S-38 from Sikorsky, and made his idea reality. The trip was very successful, and he said to his son Sam "I hope you will be able to make the same trip some day".

In 1997 Sam and family members spent time in the Pacific looking for the remains of that machine sold to Shell Oil, and subsequently lost in an accident but without success. In 1998, Sam had Born Again Replicas of Racine WI build an S-38 replica.

The idea of a replica started one day when R.W. "Buzz" Kaplan, retired CEO of Owatonna Tool Company and Sam Johnson were trading stories about their flights. Sam mentioned that he was planning to fly to Brazil from Racine Wisconsin following the same route, as his father. To cut a long story short, Born Again Replicas embarked on construction, with the help of numerous enthusiasts, and Sikorsky Aircraft. Sergei Sikorsky and his brothers Nikolai and Igor Jr., pitched in to locate drawings and information as did Graham Tuke and others in Sikorsky Customer service, and Phil Spalla of Engineering. It made a maiden flight on August 13 1998, and landed on water for the first time at the end of that month.

The following year, along with his son Fisk Johnson, they retraced the route of the original tour as closely as possible, accompanied by the S. C. Johnson S-76.

The Replica S-38 takes shape.
